

A Quick Guide to NMITE's Application Process

Stage

1

Initial Application

You will need to submit your application from through UCAS (Universities Colleges and Admissions Service). UCAS processes all university applications and will send your application to NMITE, along with your other chosen universities, to consider your potential before making you an offer.

Please familiarise yourself with the UCAS deadlines to ensure you submit your application on time

Once we receive your application, we will assess your academic potential based on your qualifications and grades and your personal statement to find out more about you as an individual and your motivation for studying at NMITE*.

You can apply directly to NMITE too. Find out more about our direct admissions process here.

- * If your application is determined to be unsuccessful at Stage 1, you will be informed by the Admissions Team and be provided with the opportunity to request feedback.

2

Selection Day

After successfully completing Stage 1, you will receive an invitation from the Admissions Team to take part in a team-based exercise.

Details of dates and where the session will take place - it will either be online via Microsoft Teams or in person - and information about the activities will also be provided.
